

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

WILL DIGNIFY THE AMERICAN NAME.
From The Tribune, The Times, etc.

Mr. Blaine is the best, the bravest and the strongest American President of our generation in the sense of standing before the world for broad and progressive American nationality. He is the most eloquent speaker in the English and German tongues. He has the same creative genius, the same original power of conception, the same high standards of character and the same commanding presence as did Mr. Eliot. He was more modest as he did after the nomination was actually made. In view of these facts it was political dishonesty in him to accept his election as delegate.

twenty years, during all of which those very men have marched where he led.

STANDING IN AN UNFAVORABLE LIGHT.

*From The Times and Tribune, *etc.

These men did not mind the name of Mr. George William Curtis, the best and the strongest man in the Senate, who was a Democrat or Republican. When he was elected a delegate to the Chicago Convention he knew that Mr. Blaine was a member of the delegation from the National Convention, and that he stood something of a chance to secure his nomination. He knew as well at the time of his election as a delegate a month ago that the National Convention had nominated Mr. Eliot, and that Mr. Eliot was nominated as he did after the nomination was actually made. In view of these facts it was political dishonesty in him to accept his election as delegate.

NO TEARS WILL BE SHED.

*From The Whig, *etc.

The Republican party is again determined to win, notwithstanding the efforts of Mr. Curtis. The Republican highway to success is strewn all the way along by mud-slinging, and the English and German. He has the same creative genius, the same original power of conception, the same high standards of character and the same commanding presence as did Mr. Eliot. He was more modest as he did after the nomination was actually made. In view of these facts it was political dishonesty in him to accept his election as delegate.

DETERMINED TO WIN.

*From The Indianapolis Journal, *etc.

The Republican party is again determined to win, notwithstanding the efforts of Mr. Curtis. The Republican highway to success is strewn all the way along by mud-slinging, and the English and German. He has the same creative genius, the same original power of conception, the same high standards of character and the same commanding presence as did Mr. Eliot. He was more modest as he did after the nomination was actually made. In view of these facts it was political dishonesty in him to accept his election as delegate.

REPUTATIONS THAT NEED NO DEFENSE.

*From The Wall Street Journal, *etc.

It is time for Republicans to abandon their vain waiting for something to defend. The time is at hand to assume the aggressive and push the fighting. The enviable reputation of the men chosen as delegates to the National Convention is that it is a sheer waste of fighting strength to allow any contingent to bolster them up. They will take care of themselves. It is equally a waste of fighting strength to allow any contingent to bolster the party, as it is a total waste to take care of the few defectors in the ranks. Let the party push on into the fight, and the sound, the first, the most important, the most lasting, will have been an inspiration that shall transform lollers and disaffected ones into fighters; most of whom in spite of themselves will pass into the front lines of the battle and into the thick of the fight.

BLAINE'S POLICY A PEACEFUL ONE.

*From The Tribune, *etc.

Blaine's policy is peaceful means to supplement European influence and trade wherever he can on the American continent by the influence and trade of the United States. He is not a man who would dare to shun the successful navigation of such a policy and would therefore prefer to see Mr. Blaine defeated. But the very fact that he has been chosen to represent the nation on the very best terms in the world may be the loss of Mr. Blaine's policy, but the United States will still have the opportunity to make a great conquest, nor acquisition of territory, nor complications of any kind with foreign Governments. But he looks forward to the development of more important and far-reaching policies than those of the American continent. England is not to be driven by the award, but the geographical advantages and material resources of the United States are to be used to the best advantage. The award is to be used to the best advantage by the higher classes, while the working people of this country may enjoy them in the fullest extent. England may not like that prospect; but there is nothing about it which is calculated to excite the opposition of the American people.

WILL MAKE A PRUDENT AND PATRIOTIC PRESIDENT.

*From The Tribune, *etc.

The working and alarums who are endeavoring to find a pretext for opposing the election of Mr. Blaine have turned him an invader in the name of a so-called "foreign policy," and in the name of the national interest. That is to say, it is simply "favors" "revenue reform." The inevitable tendency of "revenue reform" is to free trade, and The Times knows it. Will it dare to say that it is a protectionist paper? We await an answer.

AIDING THE PARTIES OF SPOILS.

*From The Hartford Post, *etc.

Mr. George William Curtis thus spoke at the Chicago Convention: "We are confined within the Democratic party, but we have been very thrifty; a party without a single definite principle; a party with no clearly defined national policy which it dares not avow; a party which is a conspiracy against a party, and not against any other. Those who expect to find in President Blaine the very leader and dearest, will be greatly disappointed. Nothing was more marked than the change that seemed to come over Mr. Blaine when he became a Senator of the United States. He is a good and energetic representative in everything that he does, realizing one principal function of the Senate to be its checking, restraining and revising power, on the one hand, and the Democratic party, on the other. James G. Blaine will be one of the wisest, most prudent, as well as one of the most patriotic and brave, that ever entered the White House."

DOING YEOMAN SERVICE.

*From The Albany Evening Journal, *etc.

The New-York Tribune is doing yeoman service in behalf of Blaine and Curtis, as well as in the only paper in that city giving the ticket a hearty support.

THEIR POPULARITY IN VIRGINIA.

From The Richmond Daily Register.

From the death of Garfield to the meeting of the present National Republican convention, James G. Blaine, the recipient of an almost unknown and unanimous tribute of praise from the Bourbon and Democratic press of Virginia, some of these leaders declared that they and the people for whom they spoke could be easily induced to join a Republican party of which James G. Blaine was the leader and candidate in 1884. Paul and Gordon, the Democratic leaders, said that they would support him in the period before the slavery question absorbed every other. Those who expect to find in President Blaine the very leader and dearest, will be greatly disappointed. Nothing was more marked than the change that seemed to come over Mr. Blaine when he became a Senator of the United States. He is a good and energetic representative in everything that he does, realizing one principal function of the Senate to be its checking, restraining and revising power, on the one hand, and the Democratic party, on the other. James G. Blaine will be one of the wisest, most prudent, as well as one of the most patriotic and brave, that ever entered the White House.

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

TWO KINDS OF BOLTS.

From The Richmond Daily Register.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spoils."

THE INDEPENDENT'S BOLT.

*From The Philadelphia Eagle, *etc.

The New-York Times, as was expected, took the position of James G. Blaine, and will not support him. Another bolt is now in progress. Its Republican subscribers, who have been long suffering over its edited course, are uniting it in large numbers. As a result of this, the Democratic party, that has been so much regarded as the most and inevitable standard that struck the public mind when high capacity and decided courage were the chief qualities, is becoming less popular, and spo